A Brief History of the Barber Surgeons

From as early as 1000 AD, the role of surgeons and physicians was separated. The surgeons often catering to the lower class, while physicians resided in courts and castles and were to be found almost exclusively in the service of the wealthy. They considered themselves above the practice of surgery and instead observed the patients, spotting symptoms, injuries, and afflictions, offering counsel reliant upon their academic knowledge to suggest an appropriate course of treatment.

In 1308, King Edward II of England granted the barbers guild status created to regulate the trade of barbering in the UK. Afterwards, in 1375, this guild was further established and separated into two distinct roles – those who did surgery and those who were only barbers. In 1540 Henry VIII merged the barbers guild and surgeons guild to form the Guild of Barber Surgeons.

The physicians, mostly in the 15th century and onwards, were accredited and licensed by the universities in which they studied, whilst barber surgeons were not. They had to apply to the trade guild and would subsequently become apprentices to barbers. Over time the term barber surgeon was born and the basic service of a barber gained many other tasks.

The union of the Barbers and Surgeons was never easy to manage and the relationship continued uneasily for 200 years. In 1745, at the request of the surgeons, a Bill was finally passed and the Surgeons left the Company forming what eventually became the Royal College of Surgeons of England.

Foreword

I wish you all and your families a very Happy New Year for 2024

One of our key objectives is the continued development of the Freeman and supporting local charities and community projects. The Beacon project and our Apprentice of the Year Awards are prime examples of our efforts to continue the development of the freemen and engage with the community.

The past year has been an extremely busy one for the Freeman, highlighted by two major events, the handover of the Freemens Beacon to the City of Durham in partnership with Durham County Council and our first ever Apprentice of the Year Ceremony, which celebrated apprentice excellence, awarding thirteen prizes over eight categories in partnership with New College Durham and Durham University.

The value of engaging with dedicated partners was rewarded by the publicity gained from both of these projects which were very well received. I thank George Oliver our Press Officer and Geoff Kitson the Freeman Photographer for their support and dedication.

Sincere thanks to all our partners for helping make these projects a resounding success and special thanks to the working groups for their commitment, as well as our Charitable Trust for their support with both projects. Additional details of the work of the Trust can be found later in the yearbook

I would also like to acknowledge the contribution and pay respect to the late Stewart Atkin who passed away in August this year. Stewart was Treasurer to the Freeman and the Charitable Trust, serving with distinction and dedication to both. He is a great loss to the Durham City Freeman.

Thanks, must also go to the Freeman Trustees who manage the assets of the Freeman for their work during the past year.

In 2023, we welcomed 7 new Members. Taking our membership to 270.

Finally, in late September I decided to step down from the role of Chairman of the Wardens and Warden of the Barbers Company, however I will continue to manage the website, and remain a trustee of the Charitable Trust.

In celebrating the Freeman, I acknowledge the importance of tradition and continuity. The unwavering dedication to upholding ancient customs and ceremonies preserves the essence of our heritage, allowing us to bridge the gap between our past and future. In a rapidly changing world, this connection to our roots remains an invaluable source of identity and pride.

During my time as Chairman, I was always mindful of the invaluable contributions of former Freeman Chairmen, learning from their example, and carrying their legacy with us. Let us recognise that the strength of a community lies not merely in its infrastructure but in the bonds that tie its people together. The Freeman of Durham City embody these bonds, reminding us that unity, vision and shared purpose are the cornerstones of progress.

Looking forward, we need to continue to collaborate, innovate, and explore new avenues to ensure that Durham City Freeman remains a beacon of excellence, far beyond our borders and recognise the Freeman of Durham City for their exceptional contributions, both past, present, and those yet to come. Their dedication to excellence, and commitment to the common good continue to inspire us all.

As we celebrate our achievements, we should remember that the true essence of being a Freeman lies not in the title, but in the honour of serving others and helping to shape a brighter future for generations to come.

I am sure the membership will have every confidence in whoever takes over the positions I have vacated and will no doubt maintain the legacy of the past and continue to develop the Freeman into the future.

Best wishes to you all.

John Booth

New Chairman of the Wardens

Alan Metcalf

Alan became a Freeman in February 2019, admitted via Customary Freedom. He was elected Chairman of the Wardens in November and Secretary to the Charitable Trust in September of this year.

Alan started his working life as an apprentice motor mechanic at Adams and Gibbon garage in Claypath in 1973. After successfully completing five years training he went on to work in garages in Langley Moor, Sherburn Village, Esh Winning and Crook before setting up his own taxi business. He left after nearly a decade to take up a job with the National Car Parks in Durham in 2001.

Two years later he was appointed the organisation's supervisor in Sunderland and then their North of England Training Officer, the job also embracing parts of Lancashire, Scotland and Northern Ireland.

There then followed spells in a telephone call centre and a council CCTV centre in Chilton before he took up his latest post, offering face-to-face advice to members of the public on a range of issues including council tax and housing benefits.

Alan has an interest in men's mental health and in his spare time attends a support group in Spennymoor. He also has a keen eye for photography.

New Warden of the Barbers' Company and Secretary to the Freeman

Bryan Proud

Brian was made a Freeman in February 2022. He was elected Warden of the Barbers Company and Secretary to the Freeman in October 2023.

He started work as an apprentice draughtsman in 1964 and further education led to an appointment as a junior engineer with the then City Council. He was promoted to senior engineer in 1972 and was made chief engineer in 1980, a post he held for eight years before becoming operations director, a position he held until his retirement in 2000.

One of the many projects in his career from which he takes particular pleasure was his involvement in the unique design of a footbridge over the A690 at the Gilesgate roundabout.

He created a scale model of the bridge, a task which formed an integral part of studies for an honours degree in civil engineering. To prove its safety credentials it was tested – quite literally – to destruction and the results subsequently scrutinised by the Institution of Civil Engineers earned him chartered member status.

Warden of the Butchers' Company Re-Elected

Abiodun Williams

After a three-year tenure of appointment Mac has been re-elected as Warden of the Butchers Company.

Mac, started his working life at Dawdon Colliery in 1960 and started work with Seaham Urban District Council in 1971. He then moved to Wear Valley then Durham City Council as Health and Safety Officer and become a Durham County Councillor in 2006 and was elected Chairman of the authority in 2010.

Mac was appointed a magistrate in Durham City in 1979, becoming chairman of the bench in 2001 before accepting the same role with the North Durham Bench two years later retiring in 2014 after 35 years service.

He became a member of the Durham Police Committee in 1988 and continued sitting when it became the Durham Police Authority, serving both for more than 15 years.

The Durham City Charter Trust has appointed Mac as Recorder, a position previously held by the Town Clerk, Clerk to the Justices, City Council Solicitor, and Monitoring Officer.

A Message from the Worshipful Mayor of Durham County Councillor Lesley Mavin

As the 420th Mayor of Durham, it has been a great honour and privilege to chair the quarterly Guild meetings for the Durham City Freemen and to be involved in the creation of new Freemen.

Freemen were members of the Trade Guilds that held power and influence for over 300 years and did much to shape the City of Durham and its heritage.

The Freemen are key to the history and traditions of Durham and provide support financially and in kind to local community organisations through the Charitable Trust.

Over the past ten years the Durham City Freemen have donated over £100,000 to worthy community causes.

Durham City Freemen have a long and proud history in representing the Craftsmen, Artisans and Businesses of the City of Durham. It has been a privilege to be a part of the very first apprenticeship awards 2023 - celebrating excellence in the city.

I wish the Freemen and their families all the best for 2024.

Cllr Lesley Mavin

The Right Worshipful Mayor of Durham

Chair of the Trustees Report

With great sadness I begin my report acknowledging the work of Stewart Atkin, treasurer to the Freeman of Durham for many years. Stewart passed away at the end of August. His wise counsel, attention to detail and professional integrity ensured the finances of the Freeman are sound and thus enabled so many developments to have been progressed in recent years. His concise, though thorough financial reports, delivered with a customary wry sense of humour will live long in the memory. Stewart was a true friend to the Freeman.

The condolences of the Freeman were conveyed to Christine and family, with trustees and wardens attending the funeral where Stewart's work in so many fields was acknowledged with thanks.

Stewart advised in January that he would be standing down as treasurer and trustee at the beginning of 2024. Therefore, the recruitment of a replacement began, and during the summer Scott Cooper, financial controller at Faltec Europe, was appointed as trustee with the intention of him taking over as treasurer following Stewart's resignation. Sadly that was effected sooner than we all had anticipated.

Senior trustee Malcolm Proud who has served the Freeman for over 30 years stood down as vice chair at the beginning of the year and relinquished his trusteeship in December 2023. Malcolm has provided the Freeman with invaluable continuity over three decades of significant social and economic change. The admission of women, establishment of the charitable arm and increased involvement in the civic and community life of Durham, have been just some features of Malcolm's tenure. For a number of years Malcolm supported Stewart Atkin in respect of financial management and acted as independent examiner of the accounts.

Alice Ambrose Thurman succeeded Malcolm as vice chair and in addition to Scott Cooper, Cathrin Morgan, head of statutory reporting for the Bernecia Group and holding a number of voluntary positions with the diocese, will be joining the trustees at the end of the year.

An eventful twelve months was also one of celebration, particularly the completion of the Freeman's Beacon, a gift to the City of Durham. In partnership with Durham County Council, it was installed on Jubilee Hill and first lit to mark the coronation of King Charles III. In similar vein the inaugural Apprenticeship Awards was a joyous celebration of achievements by young people.

More information on these events are covered elsewhere and I want to record my appreciation to John Booth and the wardens for so much hard work. John advised in September that he was standing down as chair of the wardens. His work and energy in that leadership role has transformed the profile of the Freeman.

The Freeman have played a central part over the centuries in the life of our city. In a rapidly changing world, with the future in many respects uncertain, continuity with previous generations becomes more important. Durham City Freeman are well placed to ensure history and tradition are respected while contributing to evolving circumstances.

In January I too informed trustees I would be standing down as chair and trustee at the end of 2023. It has been a pleasure and privilege to fulfil those roles and I am grateful to Roger Norris, a predecessor in this role for affording me the initial opportunity.

In conclusion I wish the Freeman of Durham, their trustees and wardens good fortune in their future endeavours.

Patrick Conway
Chairman of Trustees

Freemen Website

The Freemen website remains a central hub of information for members and the public alike, offering insights into the events and activities organised by the Freemen and the Charitable Trust.

The 'News' section is a prominent feature of the website, providing visitors with up-to-date information and recording our activities, events, and charitable support, reflecting the dynamic nature of the Freemen community.

The articles provided by George Oliver demonstrate a commitment to transparency and engagement with both members and the broader public.

"Reflection Garden" Will Mirror The Support Work Of Rural Charity

29/10/2023

A ground breaking charity's ambitions to transform a plot of overgrown woodland into a haven of peace and tranquillity has won the backing of Durham City's freemen with a £1,000 grant. The LionMouth Rural Centre, will begin preparatory work within weeks on the £10,000 project adjacent to their Broadgate Farm complex near Esh Winning and hope to start in the woodland before the spring.

Latest Gift Keeps Tourism Volunteers On The Right Track

11/10/2023

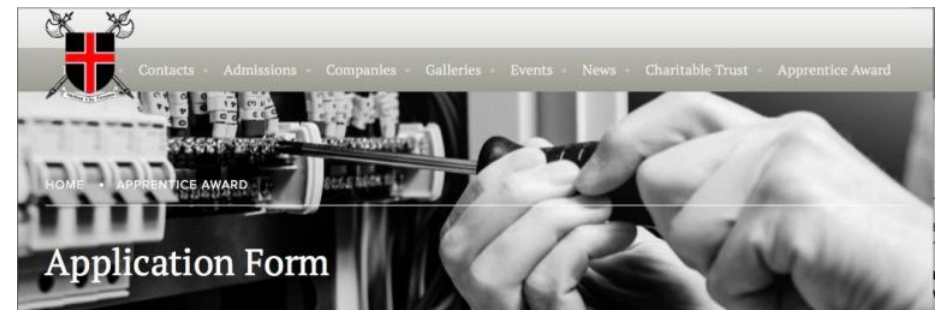

The immediate future of award winning tourism volunteers, who for more than a decade have played a key role in signposting Durham's tourist attractions to hundreds of thousands of visitors, has been given a key financial boost by the city's freemen.

Each article includes high-quality images related to the events provided by Geoff Kitson, enhancing the overall storytelling experience.

Earlier this year we added an on-line application form to the Apprentice Award area of the site. Tutors and apprentices can submit completed applications for immediate assessment.

In addition to the application form the working group has implemented an on-line Feedback Questionnaire to support their commitment to quality provision and inform future development.

We are committed to continued development of the website and embracing on-line technology.

Charitable Trust Report

Historical background

Benevolence has always been an element within the Guilds/Companies of the Durham City Freeman. In the past it was directed towards its members and their families, who may have become impoverished through hardship or bereavement.

An example of this benevolence was cited in an article in the Durham Chronicle published 9th August 1833.

"Durham Freeman's Relief Association, an advertisement in another column contains a list of the Freeman of Durham who have done honour to themselves, by relinquishing their share of the Moor rents for the purpose of providing a comfortable maintenance for the relief of their aged brethren in their declining years. It is to be hoped that the example of these praiseworthy individuals will have stimulated many others who have not yet joined the association, to give their early assistance in promoting it's truly benevolent objects."

Their share of the Moors rents, later to be known as the 'Distribution', was given annually in November to each member who resided within the city boundaries.

The following is the list of the 15 Guilds/Companies and number of Freeman who gave up their 'Distribution' to support the 'Relief'

Barbers' Company 7.	Butchers' Company 8.	Cordwainers Company 23.
Curriers' Company 4.	Drapers' Company 14.	Fullers' Company 1.
Joiners' Company 20.	Mercers' company 8.	Smiths' Company 12.
Saddlers' Company 2.	Skinners' Company 11.	Masons' Company 12
Plumbers' Company 5.	Tanners' Company 3.	Weavers' Company 2.

Changing Nature of Society

With the development of social support within the community, the need for organisations to provide benevolence for its members diminished.

Consequently the Freeman continued this act of benevolence by directing its support towards charities and worthy causes within the local community. This culminated in the creation of the Charitable Trust in 2015 and is accepted informally as the charitable giving arm of the Freeman.

The Charitable Trust recently increased the number of trustees to 7 and to date have the following 6 in place.

John Booth – Freeman.

Eric Bulmer - Freeman (Chairman).

Theresa Anne Ford - Freeman (Treasurer).

Kenneth Edward Coatsworth Howe – Trustee of the Durham City Freeman.

Alan Metcalf - Freeman (Secretary).

Alan Ribchester – Gentlemen Freeman.

Stewart Atkin

Stewart who recently died, was Treasurer of the Charitable Trust since its inception in 2015 and served with diligence and sound judgement and provided a solid foundation upon which the Charitable Trust moves forward with confidence into the future.

Community Donations 2023

Cheesy Waffles Project

The Cheesy Waffles Project, based in Belmont Community Centre, has been handed a £1,000 gift by the freemen towards costs of their latest adventure – a programme of visits offering their 100 members a special insight into the history of their home county.

The club embraces eleven different sections which meet regularly on weekdays and selected Saturdays, providing tailor-made activities for differing age groups.

Project manager Erika Denholm said: “These trips serve to raise the self-esteem, self-independency and confidence these young people need to get involved in community work, charity fundraising, supporting local community projects and making gifts. And, most importantly, they have fun while doing it.

“We would not be able to offer these opportunities without the generosity of the freemen and other organisations.

ManHealth

Man Health is a specialist organisation providing free male to male peer to peer support for North East men struggling with mental health-related issues. ManHealth will use the gift to set up a new group in the Gilesgate Family Hub in the city's Laurel Avenue and will be launching a further four groups in mid-May in family hubs in Newton Aycliffe, Peterlee, Chester-le-Street and Stanley.

Paul Bannister, who founded ManHealth over seven years ago, said: “Those leading the organisation have themselves ‘walked the walk’ of mental ill health and can offer unconditional help tempered by our own experiences.

Freemen Beacon Project

The stunning steel beacon, sited on high ground above Durham City to commemorate the reign of her late Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, was formally handed over and test fired in situ for the first time tonight Monday, March 27— just weeks ahead of the King's Coronation.

The towering structure, nineteen feet tall and weighing half a tonne was commissioned and funded by Durham City's Freemen. Charitable Trust. It has been designed and created by Brian Russell, one of the country's top artistic blacksmiths at his 200-year-old Teesdale forge.

The freemen's gift is the centrepiece of a wider county council supported project of improved footpaths and public access to the immediate area around the site of the beacon on Jubilee Hill, adjacent to the DLI Museum.

The ceremony, attended by the city's mayor, vice chair of the council and dozens of invited guests, was led by the Lord Lieutenant, Mrs Sue Snowdon, who performed the firing ceremony.

Freemen's Gift to the City

John Booth, Chairman of the Wardens said: "We hope our gift will be seen as a fitting and lasting tribute to Her Majesty, a legacy of the freemen and the outstanding skill of a local man. We hope too it will be accepted as a reflection of the quality and value of so many thousands of the craftsmen whose lives and work played such a key role in the shaping the city's history and development across more than 600 years," he added.

Councillor Joan Nicholson, vice chair of the council, said: "I am delighted to attend the hand-over ceremony of the beacon to mark the freemen's gift and commemorate Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II. It is fitting the beacon was designed and created by a local blacksmith, showcasing the craftsmanship and talent we have across the county and the rich heritage of County Durham.

The newly forged partnership with New College Durham, Durham University and Durham Cathedral, made their first awards to thirteen young men and women, judged “best in class,” across a range of trade skills.

Heraldry and the Guilds

Project to Replicate Guild Shields - Eric Bulmer, Plumbers' Company

It is well known that heraldry, began in the 12th century on the shields of knights to identify them in the heat of battle, today heraldry provides devices for corporate bodies, local authorities and individuals.

Coat of Arms

The 'Shield' is a component of a Coat of Arms that also includes, crest, helm, wreath, mantling, supporters and moto.

These armorial devices on the shields of knights (e.g. swords etc) were often replaced by emblems relating to individuals or organisations.

It was 100 years later before the London Guild of Drapers were granted a charter of incorporation by Henry VI, that enabled the granting of a Coat of Arms in 1438 by the Garter King of Arms, now known as the College of Arms.

It is unlikely that the Durham City Freemen were granted arms in their own right, but like other city guilds they would have copied and adapted those granted to the London Guilds.

Heraldry of the Guilds'. – Durham Town Hall.

There is very little visible evidence of the Guilds of the Durham City Freemen within the Town Hall apart from;

1. Painted shields high in the roof structure of the Main Hall, examples below.

2. A small number of watercolour paintings of coats of arms of guilds in the Guildhall.

Objectives of the Project

1. To replicate the shields of the original 16 Guilds (currently displayed in the roof structure of the Main Hall and placing them in the Guildhall (traditional home of the Guilds/ Freemen).
2. To enhance the environment in the Guildhall by displaying the shields to represent the history of the Freemen and under-pinning the origins of the craft and trade guilds.

Progress of the project.

Tools and materials for painting the shields has changed little over 500 years, other than the improved quality the paint and refinement of the signwriting brushes. The application of gold and platinum leaf to an adhesive background has remained unchanged over the centuries and the metallic finish provides a gem like quality to the shield.

The stages of the process from wooden shield to completed shield, using enamel paint, gold and platinum leaf are set out below.

Completed Shields of 8 of the 16 Guilds/ Companies.

The challenge is for members to Identify which shield belongs to their company.

Annual Dinner

Our guest speaker Canon Michael Everitt and Mrs Ruth Everitt

Our Annual Dinner was held on the 4th November in the Masonic Hall and was a very enjoyable social evening for our sixty one members and Freemen friends.

We were delighted the Mayor, Cllr Lesley Mavin, the Mayoress, Mrs Trish Sutcliffe, were able to attend along with Canon Michael Everitt our guest speaker on the evening.

Below are Cllr Joan Nicholson the Chair of Durham County Council, and her Consort Mr Robert Nicholson.

Our guests included Wardens, their guests, the Trustees, and fellow Freemen.

Arthur Lockyear was our Master of Ceremony for the evening.

Alan Ribchester from the Charitable Trust presented Arthur with a cheque in support of the Remembrance Parade.

Eric Bulmer Chairman of the Charitable Trust presented the Mayor with a cheque in support of St Cuthbert's Hospice.

Captain Stephen Healy represented the Freemen of England and Wales.

Moving Forward

As I begin my tenure of appointment as Chairman of the Wardens, I look forward to the next three years with enthusiasm and I hope to continue to build on the future sustainability of our organisation.

Our main priority for 2024 is to continue with the Apprenticeship Award programme to include additional organisations and in doing so establish stronger employer connections and therefore continue to increase awareness of the project with key partners and raise the profile of the Freeman.

My intention is to also grow our relationship with other Guilds, in particular the Freeman of Newcastle and the Freeman of England and Wales. Discussions have already started with this aim in mind.

One aspect of implementing the sustainability paper was the introduction of Deputy Wardens. This was a ground breaking move which has proved to be very successful due to the input from the Deputies which otherwise would not have been received. These posts are open to all members to apply for when a vacancy becomes available.

I would actively encourage members to apply for any vacancies, as this is the perfect stepping stone for anyone wishing to become involved in moving the organisation forward and potentially becoming our Wardens of the future.

Our members meetings unfortunately have been very poorly attended and as a consequence we have decided to hold one meeting a year rather than four, as was the norm. At the time of printing the date is yet to be arranged, but once agreed the date and time will be published on the website and your Warden will email a reminder to in-district members nearer the time.

If anyone has alternative suggestions as to how we could maintain contact with the membership please contact me or your Warden.

The 2023 Annual Dinner attracted sixty one guests and was a huge success. The Annual Dinner is our flagship event and it is always wonderful to see and meet our members and guests on these occasions. This year the dinner will be held on the 26th October and I hope to see you there.

You will have noticed that included in the Yearbook is a contact details slip. I would very much appreciate If you could take the time to complete and return this, either by email or post, as it is essential that all member details are kept up to date.

In conclusion, I wish you and your families all the very best for 2024.
